Marks Hope: to convey his joy of sculpting in a way that takes you to a place not often seen by human eyes, which is your imagination. The process of creation from start to finish, although lengthy, is rewarding. It begins with an idea, either Mark's or yours, which is then put into clay. After molded in silicone rubber, the finished product emerges from the use of a variety of materials such as bronze, resin, plastic or plaster.

We are sure you will find what you're looking for at Mark Patrick Studios, including one-of-a-kind gifts for family, friends, ministries, congregation members business associates and galleries. With his faith-based sculptures, he can provide you with innovative ideas of fundraising and/or partner gifts.
